Working with the Adjustment Brush In addition to using the Adjustment Brush tool to adjust the image, there are five other editing modes that you can apply to images (Figure 3.9): * White Balance: This tool allows you to adjust the white balance. White balance is the base of any color-fixing operation that is found in the White Balance Adjustment Panel. You can use this tool to adjust the mood of the image with cool or warm white balance effects. * Spot Removal: This tool allows you to remove unwanted spots from an image. * Hue: This tool enables you to adjust the intensity of colors in an image. * Saturation: This tool enables you to adjust the amount of saturation that is applied to the color content of an image. * Colorize: This tool enables you to apply

Images shared on the Internet require a high-quality image editor. Here are some of the best photo editing apps to make your images look better. 1. Espresso Espresso by Gus Gutiérrez is an award-winning app that makes any photo instantly transform into a professional photo, and also captures all of the elements which make a photo great, like subjects and mood. While most of the features of the app are free, the Professional version of the app can only be downloaded in the App Store, with the price of $0.99. The app is available for both iPhone and Android. 2. Snapseed Snapseed is by far the most widely used photo editor for Android and iOS. Developed by Google, it is the successor to Picnik and Fotor, both excellent photo editors. In the same vein as Picnik, Snapseed is a photo editor that combines ease of use, sharing and an intuitive interface. There are many features to take advantage of and the app comes with some useful filters and editing tools. The app only costs $1.99 to download and $4.99 to buy. A free version is also available that lacks many of the editing tools. 3.

TapTapTap The free version of this app is the one you're most likely to want to download. The app has all of the features of the paid version but is free of charge and the design and interface is much simpler. This is an all-round professional photo editing app that is available on both iOS and Android. The only drawbacks of the app are that it does not have direct access to all the editing tools such as the Liquify tools. But it is still a good and useful app for editing a variety of images. 4. Camtasia Studio Camtasia Studio, by TechSmith, is a video editing tool that can be used to create professional looking videos. Camtasia Studio can be used to create presentations, speeches and even create multiple tutorials. The videos can be uploaded to YouTube and Facebook. It is an excellent option for online video editing. The app is available for both iOS and Android. 5. Capture One Pro Capture One Pro is an excellent photo editor for professional photographers to edit their images. Not only is it a good tool for basic editing, it is also versatile and can be used for a variety of different tasks.

Euro 2008 Euro 2008 (the "Junior European Championship" (in some countries also "Junior Eurovision")), held every 4 years since its creation in 1955, was the ninth UEFA European Football Championship. The final tournament consisted of 16 teams, the two host nations (Greece and Czech Republic) and all preceding groups winner. The last time the tournament was played was in 2004, which ended in a historic European title for Greece. Format All 16 countries of the tournament were split into 4 groups of 4 teams. The group winners and runners-up qualified for the final tournament. Qualification The qualifiers featured the winners from the preceding European Championship plus the 5 best ranking teams not qualified at the 2004 European Championship and a special one-off qualification tournament. The qualifiers featured all former European Championship countries (except France, as its first two appearances are part of the 2014 UEFA European Football Championship qualification), plus Israel and Turkey (as invited teams), with Greece and Czech Republic hosting the two qualifying matches. The three qualifying matches were a single round-robin format, with all teams playing each other once. However, if a team was already qualified, it was given a bye and did not play. The top 2 teams (along with the best second placed team in Group B) qualified. Valencia Blues in full-time soccer Strolling through the town in the summertime is a pleasure, but in the spring, festival-goers may find themselves seeing many more people on the streets than they normally do. For the Valencia Blues music festival, that month is September. The Bluesmen have decided to stay year round, and this year they will be holding two outdoor concerts a day for over five days at the Pabellon Municipal, the largest open-air stage in the City. Valencia is known for its blue and white houses, and the festival will be themed around this iconic color. The artistic director of the festival is Alejandro Pablo, a former "Club de València" soccer star, who was one of the most-admired members of the Valencia CF's Gremio 1st team in the 1960s. Pablo and the Bluesmen will be playing the official anthem of the Valencia CF, "Cha-Cha-Cha," sung in the valencian language. They will also be playing a wide variety of other music from Western Europe, Latin America, Argentina and Africa. The festival will have over thirty musical acts, including many national bands, and there will be a variety of food vendors, beer gardens and the always-popular Blues Beer Garden. Tickets are available online, and you can find out more information here. The dates for the festival this year are set for September 6-8, 15 and 16. The first concert will be on Thursday, September 6, at 21:30; the second will be on Friday, September 7, at 20:00; and the third on Saturday, September 8, at 9:30. Remember to bring chairs and blankets, as none of the stages have shade. The Valencia Blues Music Festival aims to celebrate the traditional Valencian musical genre of gaita valenciana, while remaining authentic to its origins. It is produced by the Institut Valencià de la Musica and is distributed by Outlet, the official company of the Valencia Bluesman Festival. It is supported by the Valencia City Council and the Valencia Delegación for Tourism, and it is funded by the Valencia Delegación for Culture, Tourism and Trade. The festival has been the most successful in the Valencian Community, with a total of 800,000 attendees over the last five years. Each concert has sold out, although a
